“ I remember him working for Dad. He loved Corvairs. I like to drive them but dad didn't like me driving them. He said they were a death trap. However, he took Fred Oliver's grandpa Mr. Rhoads for a ride. He had picked up all the rocks and had a path and pretended to miss the turn by Fisher's lumber company going east out of town and scared him to death. He had to shake him to keep him from passing out on him. Mr. Roads told him to not do that to anybody else. He's gonna make somebody have a heart attack!
Everybody like Earny, he was like family!
